Research Title (and research sub-programme):

Multiscalar project for resilient cities and regions

Guidance for anticipating critical processes and hazards and for enhancing resilience

Research programme description:

The researcher must contribute to develop multiscalar design methodologies considering the different relationships between urban and larger scales in different contexts. The latter include central metropolitan areas, medium size cities, inner peripheries in mountain areas, islands, small historic hamlets. In all cases the common aspect is the exposure and vulnerability to natural hazards and consequences of climate change. An introductory explorative work to survey and understand the different contexts and risks will have to be project oriented with the aim of reinforcing/creating more resilience cities and territories.

Starting and implementation of the research programme:

The researcher will work under the supervision of the Reference Committee on Multiscalar project for resilient cities and regions framed within the ζ DASTU Excellence Department Project Fragile Territories ζ . The contract is renewable for three years upon collective decision of the Committee.

He/she will have to work in an integrated manner with the Reference Committee for this specific topic, helping also to write proposals competing for national and international calls, strengthening and enlarging the already existing international network with which DASTU is collaborating.

Activities that the Temporary Research Fellow will carry out, obligations of the Temporary Research Fellow and conditions :

An introductory explorative work to survey and understand the different contexts and risks will have to be project oriented with the aim of reinforcing/creating more resilience cities and territories. This will imply to suggest and experiment practices, tools, policies and actions that are usually adopted for urban regeneration but also offer concrete response to crucial problems posed by high levels of hazards and potential consequences of climate change.

The researcher's activities will be informed by the state of art studies and previous experiences developed at the DASTU regarding environmental risks and will have to consider Italian and international literature and relevant practices.
