SOCIAL MEDIA GUIDELINES – STANFORD UNIVERSITY

These guidelines are designed to help Stanford employees, volunteers, affiliates, and consultants (e.g., creative agencies) in making appropriate decisions when managing and/or developing social media initiatives on behalf of the university. Additionally, the guidelines are intended to advise Stanford employees who indicate an institutional affiliation on their personal social media profiles on how to balance their affiliation with personal conversation.

These guidelines are intended to complement existing university policy. If there is a conflict between guidance in this document and a policy in the Administrative Guide, then the Administrative Guide controls. Further, these guidelines do not supersede or otherwise modify the social media communications policy adopted by SLAC National Accelerator Laboratory.

Top universities in Europe

It may be the second-smallest continent, but Europe is densely packed with many of the world's best educational institutions. In the QS World University Rankings® 2024, a total of 501 European universities are featured among the world's best, roughly one-third of all the universities included.

The UK boasts Europe's highest number of internationally ranked universities with 90 entries, followed by Germany (49) and Italy (42). However, it's Switzerland that joins the UK in having a university ranked among the world's top 10, something neither Germany nor Italy can manage.
